THE AMERICAN PEACE SOCIETY

THE OBJECT

THE OBJECT of the American Peace Society is "to promote permanent international peace, to educate and organize public opinion in opposition to war as a means of settling international differences, and to advance in every proper way the general use of conciliation, judicial methods, and other peaceful means of avoiding and adjusting such differences."

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

The American Peace Society was founded at New York in 1828; incorporated at Boston in 1848; moved to Washington, D. C., in 1911.

"At a meeting of the Maine Peace Society at Minot, February 10, 1826, a motion was carried to form a national peace society. Minot was the home of William Ladd. The first constitution for a national peace society was drawn by this illustrious man, at the time corresponding secretary of the Massachusetts Peace Society. The constitution was provisionally adopted, with alternations, February 18, 1828, but the society was finally and officially organized, through the influence of Mr. Ladd, May 8, 1828, and with the aid of David Low Dodge, in New York City. Mr. Dodge wrote, in the minutes of the New York Peace Society: 'The New York Peace Society resolved to be merged in the American Peace Society . . . which, in fact, was a dissolution of the old New York Peace Society, formed 16 August, 1815, and the American, May, 1828, was substituted in its place.'"

MEMBERSHIP

Membership in the Society is open to all persons who desire to aid in putting an end to the evil of war, and in extending the reign of law and of good-will among the nations.
